CHARGES FOLK WITH SWAPPING

Senator Stone Says Supporters of Gov. Folk are Trading With Hadley.

SPOKE TUESDAY NIGHT

Had a Big and Enthusiastic Audience—Did a Hard Days Work in the County Speaking For Democracy.

After an arduous day's labor, in which he spoke at four other places in the county, Senator William Joel Stone addressed Tuesday night an audience in the upper court room which filled all the available space and enthusiastically applauded at every opportunity. At seven the people began to file in and by 7:30 the room was crowded.

At 7:45 Judge Alex. Graves in a few words introduced the senator as a man whose democracy had never been under suspicion. When Mr. Stone arose there began a prolonged round of applause which lasted several minutes and ended in a loud cheer.

The Senator reversed his usual procedure and talked of matters relating to the senatorial race first. He expressed his regret and disappointment that Governor Folk had entered the contest, for party as well as for personal reasons.

Referring to the campaign of Governor Stone, he said, "I am not an alliance with Herbert S. Hadley for the purpose of delivering democratic votes to Hadley in return for republican votes for Folk."

"Mr. Folk may not have made these arrangements himself," he said, "but his supporters did and he is not denouncing the action."

He referred to the specific cases of Lee and Ragland in Joplin, both appointees of the Governor, who are engaged in making the Folk-Hadley trade. He said that he wanted only democratic votes.

He drew a sarcastic and ironical picture of the Governor striking terror into the Senate and wreaking mighty vengeance by the same weapon that Samson used when he slew the Philistines. He scathingly denounced Hadley, praised Cowherd and the entire democratic ticket.

After the address he held an informal reception and was assured of the support of many voters. Probably he converted no men who were opposed to him, but it is thought that he clinched a good many who were undecided.

Wednesday at 8:30 a. m. Dr. Frank L. Davis of St. Louis and Miss Leslie Claire Bates of this city were married at the home of the bride's father, Dr. Geo. W. Bates, on Franklin avenue. The wedding was extremely quiet, being witnessed only by intimate friends and relatives of the contracting parties and the members of the high school dramatic club, of which the bride has had charge for the past two years.

In the library, which was tastefully decorated, the ceremony took place, the couple standing between two large ferns. Rev. T. M. Cobb was the officiating minister, using the beautiful ring ceremony in an impressive manner.

Dr. Davis is an industrious and capable young man of the highest integrity and professional qualifications. He is a graduate of the Wentworth Military academy of this place and of the medical department of Washington university of St. Louis. He is now a practicing physician in St. Louis and has every prospect of a bright future. In Lexington his popularity is great, as during his frequent visits here he has formed many warm friendships.

The bride is a graduate of Central College and a highly accomplished and attractive young lady in every particular. She is a member of most of the important organizations of the city and has always been prominent in social and intellectual activities. At the same time she has great domestic accomplishments and is admirably fitted to preside in the home of the young man who was fortunate in winning her.

Let the Voters Remember

That Railroad Magnate Harriman testified that, at Roosevelt's request, he raised a fund of $200,000 for the Republican campaign, when Roosevelt was elected President.

That the great insurance companies contributed hundreds of thousands of dollars to the Republican campaign.

That Herbert Hadley chased Rockefeller and Rogers of the Standard Oil Company all over the eastern part of the United States, through the newspapers, and after months of time, and the expenditure of considerable money from the State Treasury, caught Rogers, put him on the stand, asked him two unimportant questions and then announced that he did not need Mr. Rockefeller at all.

That Hadley and the whole Republican ticket was appointed by Dickey, the Sewer Pipe Magnate, and his committee, and not selected by the rank and file of the Republican party.

That Charles Nagel, the attorney of record in Missouri of the Standard Oil Trust, is the Republican National Committeeman from Missouri, and accompanied Mr. Taft on his trip through Missouri.

That Hadley absented himself from the Chicago National Convention, and Nelson Crews, the negro from Kansas City, took his place as his alternate.

The eyes of Grover Cleveland had hardly closed in eternal sleep before a forged letter, purporting to have been written by him, appeared in all the Republican papers, and his suffering widow was compelled to appear in court and give evidence which resulted in the indictment of the forger of this Republican campaign document.

They claimed that the Republican party was the friend of Union Labor and were answered by Samuel Gompers that the Republican party was the enemy of Union Labor.

Republicans said they were in favor of tariff reform, but when asked for a reduction during the last session of Congress, replied, "Wait until after election."

Republicans say they are in favor of civil service reform, and then put every postmaster and federal official into active politics, and Roosevelt himself dictated the nomination of Taft, took personal charge of his campaign, holding his Cabinet in session one whole day to help him prepare an answer to one of Mr. Bryan's letters.

Republicans say they are in favor of economy in the Government's expenses and created nearly one hundred thousand offices during the last six years, costing the nation nearly $76,000,000.

Republicans take the credit in the South for having discharged a black regiment and then send four negroes as alternates to the National Republican Convention from the State of Missouri to appease the negroes here.

Republicans take credit for high prices, but are silent on the subject of increased cost of living. The cost of living has grown 49 per cent. in ten years. The increase in wages has been less than 15 per cent.

Republicans boast that their candidate for Governor has reduced the price of oil in this state, and at the same time make no effort to remove the 15 per cent tariff tax on oil, which permits the manufacturers of that commodity to sell oil in England from 5 to 6 cents a gallon cheaper than it is sold in the United States.

They advocate prohibition out in the State, and talk of personal liberty in St. Louis.

Republicans oppose the guaranty of deposits for the citizen and yet demand a guaranty for all deposits made by the Government.

Mrs. Marybelle Taylor, wife of John T. Taylor, died Wednesday night at 11:30 o'clock after a two weeks' illness with a complication of diseases.

Mrs. John T. Taylor was born December 15, 1846, and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Neet. Her birthplace was on the old farm near Nicholasville, Jessamine county, Kentucky. Her maiden name was Marybelle Neet. In 1852 she accompanied her family to this county and has lived here ever since. On January 28, 1868, she married Mr. Taylor. Mrs. Taylor is survived by her husband, three brothers—Frederick R. Neet and William F. Neet of this city and George Neet of Liberty—one sister, Mrs. Bettie Linnehan, of Portland, Oregon, and five children—George J. J. T. Taylor, Jr., Mrs. William H. Cullom, Mrs. Thomas Fletcher, all of this city and Mrs. John Wittenburg of Holden, Mo.

Mrs. John Thomas Taylor was a noble example of what the true woman should be—kind, gentle and thoughtful in word and deed—almost holy in character, and her generous and Christianlike acts have endeared her in the hearts of many who have been benefited by her goodness and Christian grace. She was beloved by all who had the good fortune to know her true self. She always ministered to the comforts of her home and children with loving and tender hands. The bereaved family have the sympathy of the entire community in their loss of one whose place will be so hard to fill. Mrs. Taylor joined the Christian church in early childhood and had been a devoted and active member up until her last illness.

Central Teachers' Recital.

One of the largest audiences that Murrell auditorium has held was present Thursday evening at the annual recital of the teachers of music and expression in Central college. Every seat was occupied and extra chairs had to be brought in to accommodate the crowds. It was an audience, moreover, of more than usual appreciation and it gave a hearty encore to every number on the program. The verdict of those present was altogether one of approval.

The program follows:

Rubenstein.....Barcarolle, G minor Etude, E flat
Miss Larmer.
Joaquin Miller.....Como
Mrs. Alexander.
Borowski.....Adoration
Dvorak.....Humoreske
Keler Bela.....Hungarian Fantasia
Miss Pilcher.
Gounod.....Jewel Song from Faust
Miss Pugh.
Chaminade.....Etude de Concert
Leschetizky.....Intermezzo on Octaves
Mr. King.
Williams.....A Few Bars in the Key of G
Mrs. Alexander.
von Fleitz.....Die Nacht ist Schwarz
(Fair Jesse)
Leoni.....Birth of Morn
Marie Rich.....Rose of Yester e'en
Miss Catron.
Liszt.....Rhapsodie, No. 12
Miss Hinesley.

Miss Larmer, the new head of the piano department is a lady of pleasing manner and stunning stage appearance. She handled the two Rubenstein numbers with masterful musicianship and clear interpretation. The tremolo passages in the Barcarolle and the arpeggios in the Etude were particularly well given. But even more delightful was her encore, Henselt's "If I were a Bird." She rendered this brilliant and dainty piece with such understanding and ability that she firmly established herself with Lexington music-lovers.

The other new teacher, Mrs. Alexander, proved herself the best reader Central has had for a good many years. Her voice was clear, her enunciation distinct, her gestures sane, her interpretation splendid. After her second number she was forced to give two encores. Miss Pilcher, always a favorite violinist with a Lexington audience, added to her reputation and popularity.

Miss Pugh was at her best and sang the Jewel Song with grace and feeling. Her encore was lighter, but nevertheless pleasing.

It was a certainty that Mr. King would play well and he justified all expectations. The difficult octave work in the Intermezzo was handled with the greatest ease and accuracy. Mr. King is one of the best pianists that ever played in Lexington and his performance in this recital and fully up to his standard.

No singer has ever been more popular locally than Miss Mattie Lou Catron. Her deep rich contralto and her imposing stage appearance have always found favor. Thursday evening she was in excellent voice and sang unusually well. Central is indeed fortunate in having Miss Catron at the head of its vocal department.

Miss Jo Hinesley concluded the program with the Twelfth Rhapsodie in her usual artistic style. Miss Hinesley is always diligent, conscientious, intelligent and thorough in her work as her playing shows, and she bears the reputation of being an excellent teacher.

From every standpoint the recital was a success and the people of Lexington have every reason to expect fine work in the music and expression department at Central this year.

J. A. Scarlett left Thursday evening for his home in Breckenridge after a short visit with relatives in this city.
